

Short Biography

Job ter Burg (1972, Maarn, The Netherlands) graduated from The Netherlands Film and Television Academy as a film editor (1992-1996), after two years of studying Film and Television at the University of Utrecht (1990-1992), which were preceded by grammar school in Doorn (1984-1990).

He started out as an editor for mostly television documentaries, but after his continued collaboration with film school class mate Martin Koolhoven on DARK LIGHT (1997) and the much awarded SUZY Q (1999), he focused on editing feature films. After two nominations for Best Film Editing (at the yearly Dutch Film Festival in Utrecht) for his work on GODFORSAKEN (Pieter Kuijpers, 2003) and SCHNITZEL PARADISE (Martin Koolhoven, 2005), he got to be the lead film editor on the prestigious BLACK BOOK (2006), Paul Verhoeven's first Dutch film in 20 years.

Ter Burg was awarded with the ICS Award for Best Editing for Paul Verhoeven's ELLE (2016) and with the Golden Calf for Best Film Editing for his work on Rudolf van den Berg's TIRZA (2010). ELLE (2016) won more than 60 awards, including two Golden Globes (Best Foreign Language Film 2017 & Best Actress 2017) and was nominated for an Academy Award in the Best Actress category (Isabelle Huppert). BORGMAN (2013) and ELLE (2016) were selected for the Competition at the Festival de Cannes, BRIMSTONE (2016) and BLACK BOOK (2006) were selected for the Competition in at the Venice Film Festival. THE LAST DAYS OF EMMA BLANK (2009) won the Europa Cinemas Award at Venice Days. BLACK BOOK (2006) and WINTER IN WARTIME (Martin Koolhoven, 2009) were both shortlisted for the Academy Awards in the Best Foreign Language Film category.

Job is co-founder and President of the Netherlands Association of Cinema Editors (NCE) and he is a regular guest teacher, lecturer and editing coach a.o. at The Netherlands Film and Television Academy, the Dutch Film Festival (2003), the University of Utrecht, the Rutger Hauer Film Factory in Rotterdam (2007), Berlinale Talents in Germany (2009 and 2017) and the School Of Visual Arts in New York (2010).
